NEW POSTAL DEVICE GREAT LABOR SAVER

LOS ANGELES, Cal., June 27.—Stamping, postmarking, canceling and sealing of first-class mail in large quantities can hereafter be accomplished at one operation by utilizing a little machine called the "postograph," invented by Luther L. Mack, of Los Angeles.

The device has just been approved by the United States post office department and will be manufactured in large quantities. It is claimed. It is a small printing and recording mechanism, which can be set on a desk.

It is so simple to operate that a child can handle it with amazing efficiency. A small cylinder contains the die which prints the stamp and the postmark, and also a meter which counts forward up to 1,000,000 for record and backward for whatever number indicates the number of stamps which have been purchased. The cylinder is taken to the postoffice, where payment is made for the number of stamps desired.

The mechanism is then set to correspond and sealed by the postal authorities, and returned to the machine and the number of pieces desired printed.

The postograph will stamp 300 letters a minute, any size up to twelve inches in length at an equal speed. Letters may be any thickness up to an eighth of an inch without affecting the speed of handling.

The size of the entire machine is 12x16x16 inches, and it is run by a small electric motor of one-sixth horsepower and concealed from view. Later a smaller machine, which can be run by hand, will be made, it is said.

The stamp dies will be for any denomination of stamp desired, and the ink will be of the same tint as the adhesive stamp of like denominations.

By using the postograph over 85 per cent of the time and labor now required in affixing postage stamps and canceling will be done away with.

MERCHANT FINANCIAL WRECK

"I am a financial wreck because of the expense of doctors and medicine for my wife, who has been a chronic sufferer for 10 years. Some pronounced it gall stones, some constipation and some intestinal inflammation. I happened to read an ad of May's Wonderful Remedy and from the first dose my wife has steadily improved. It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrh, mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded.—For sale by all druggists.

Heavy Sale of Fake University Degrees Revealed in Europe

LONDON, June 27.—Charges that there is a heavy sale of degrees from alleged American universities are made by George E. Maclean, director of the British Division of the American University Union in Europe.

"Agents of so-called American universities or colleges, with ingenious pretenses, are persuading ambitious but too credulous schoolmasters and ministers to buy diplomas and sometimes to pay for honorary degrees by correspondence," Maclean charged.

"It is notorious that some institutions have made the District of Columbia, controlled by congress, in view of the laxity of its regulations, their seat of operations. The Oriental University of Washington, D. C., has had agents hawk its degrees to be given in absentia on payment of considerable fees to nationals of foreign countries. It is incorporated in Virginia and is legally authorized to confer degrees, but proceedings have been instituted by the state, in view of its practices, to annul its charter. Indeed, the United States Department of State has issued a statement saying that persons seeking information concerning this so-called university should be advised to place no reliance upon the alleged claims of the institution to academic consideration. The Association of American Colleges passed resolutions in January, 1922, viewing with concern the lax regulations governing the granting of charters to higher institutions in the District of Columbia, and requesting the congress of the United States to pass a law providing adequate safeguards for granting charters to higher institutions located in the District of Columbia and for maintaining high educational standards in these institutions. Another notorious centre is Chicago."

The Future Ruth.
Another thing: When Ruth starts to slip he will look worse than any other in the game. The wonder of the age is that he hits them at all with that terrific swing. Doll that eye a bit and his swing will be the most ridiculous thing off the barbed wire circuit. He'll either have to shorten it and be an ordinary hitter or he can go right on swinging and be an extraordinary sap.

Still another: Ruth's popularity was due to wane, even if he let the umpires severely alone and went on hitting home runs. The box office value of a home run nowadays is negligible. They are so plentiful they have become something of a nuisance.

Trade by Barter
Only Seen as Russia's Future

WASHINGTON, June 27.—(U. P.) If you think the cost of living is high here, don't go to Moscow.

"Prices in Moscow are now doubling every month, which means multiplying 400 times a year," says a statement, which continues: "Then, in the ration of food in April cost 1,000,000 rubles."

At the normal rate of exchange this would have been $15,000.

"The time must apparently come soon when paper money will no longer buy," the statement continues. "Then, in the absence of precious metals, all business will have to be done by barter—a method so cumbersome that it will almost inevitably check the increase of production which otherwise might be hoped to follow from the so-called 'new economic policy.'"

Russia is maintaining a trade blockade against herself, the department of commerce declared.

The people of no country are now carrying on trade with the people of Soviet Russia, the department said in a comprehensive statement designed to clear many false impressions regarding business relations with the bolshevik regime.

Despite treaties with Germany, England and Italy, providing that nationals of these countries may enter Russia for trade purposes, the department declared that when these trad-
